

Robin's Song

"Equipping people and training them to provide safe, clean drinking water for their communities"

November 2017

NEW WEBSITE

It has been a long time coming, but we are happy to share with you our new website at www.robins-song.org. There has been a lot of time and effort to redesign the site with updated functionality in order to share our experiences, pictures, and even videos. They give an up close view of every part of the operation. You will be able to see the wells being drilled and hear the stories of all the lives that are being touched. We will have the ability to continuously update the site as new projects are underway and completed. You can meet us and hear our stories and it may help you understand our passion for the Chadian people.

On the home page, you can see our board member, Esaie Toingar, having his picture taken with the kids that were watching their well being drilled. You can see one of the guys looking over the wall at the work. It seems that the entire village gathers around to watch. There are other pictures that show just how dirty and muddy everyone gets when they are drilling the hole. Mud gets everywhere - all over their faces, their clothes, they are walking in it, and there is no helping that. It also takes a lot of people to move the pumps, the pipe, gravel, and cement. The best picture that I like is the precious little girl that is more than happy to have her picture taken.

We also detail the proven model that makes Robin's Song stand out. We don't just come into an area for a mission trip and then leave. We work with the local people to teach them how to do the work and give them pride in providing something valuable to their people and ownership of their new well. They are provided with the training to install and provide maintenance so that every well is operational for years to come. In past years, we have seen many wells in disuse and not functioning. With our model of investing in a team of local people, we can ensure that every well will continue to operate for the people that grow to depend on it.

Take a look at the new website and we hope that you like it as much as we do. We will update it with a lot of pictures and stories as they become available.

In Christ,

Mark Griffioen

Executive Director

Our Purpose:

To make available clean drinking water in areas of great need.

To help people to support themselves with an income from drilling the deep wells.

To show God's love to the people we serve that they may know Him as their personal Lord and Savior.
